table creation with a column with numbers only
I am trying to create a database table in SQL Server that looks like: PK Column | Year Column | Month Column | Day Column | Time Column I have been trying to create this using a stored procedure, but cannot get it right. The reason I'm doing this is because the data in the row is limited to: Year: 01 - 99 Month: 01

---

- 12 Day: 01 - 31 Time: HH:MM:SS:FF The point is that I will never need to store the actual dates, just the values inside these columns. So my question is, how do I make this work? A: As far as I can see, I think you are looking for all possible combinations of those values. So why do you not use a conventional table?

The gut is a complex ecosystem composed of millions of bacterial species that interact intimately with the host. Diet is recognized as a determinant of microbial colonization in the gut and is likely to influence the composition and activity of the resident bacterial population. A growing body of evidence supports a link between dietary components and the incidence and activity of beneficial bacteria such as Bifidobacterium and Lactobacillus. This is of particular interest in the field of probiotic delivery, where certain probiotic organisms are included as a component of dietary supplements. This review summarizes the current knowledge of the relationship between diet and the incidence, growth, activity, and phenotypes of these bacteria.Q: Angular2 + AngularFire2 | How to properly update @angularfire2.db I'm using Angular2 with AngularFire2 and MySQL as backend.
